IAC LEGACY

Innovation and aspiration to explore and harness the power of knowledge for the benefit of the world have always been a cross-cutting theme throughout Azerbaijan's space history spanning centuries. The origins of space activities in Azerbaijan can be traced to as far as the 13th century, and today's rapid development of the space sector in Azerbaijan builds upon this centuries-long heritage.

1973 was a milestone year for Azerbaijan's space industry as the 24th International Astronautical Congress under the theme "Space Research: Influence on Science and Technology" was held in Baku, the only city in the region that hosted this prominent event. The event has been a fundamental highlight in the history of the country - it is highly symbolic that the global space community will get together in Baku for the IAC once again half a century later, showcasing the world the latest developments and insights within the space sector.

Today, Azerbaijan is taking gradual, but firm steps towards becoming one of the leading players on the international space arena. The country and its people are dedicated to exploring the space together and tackling the global challenges through myriad opportunities that the space offers, and the 2023 edition of the IAC is another attestation of that.
